INTRODUCTION

Italian Legislative Decree No. 27/2010 (which entered into force on 20 March 2010) transposed into Italian law Directive 2007/36/EC of 11 July 2007 on shareholders' rights, essentially meant to ensure greater shareholder attendance at the shareholders' meetings of listed companies as well as to ensure that they receive more information, especially prior to the meeting.

Essentially, this legislative decree, which amends certain provisions of the Italian Civil Code and of Italian Legislative Decree No. 58 of 24 February 1998 (Consolidated Law on Finance, "TUF"), amended the organisation and functioning of the shareholders' meetings of listed companies and introduced new shareholders' rights while strengthening those already recognised, with a view to improving the shareholders' meeting as a moment for discussion and dialogue amongst the company's shareholders and management bodies.

Subsequently, Italian Legislative Decree No. 91 of 18 June 2012 (published in Official Gazette No. 152 of 2 July 2012) set forth corrective measures aimed at solving some critical issues which emerged after the aforementioned directive was transposed.

In consideration of this significant intervention by lawmakers, and with the desire to meet the needs of our bank's shareholders, this document has been prepared to summarise the main legal and regulatory provisions on shareholders' meetings.

PARAGRAPH No. 1

CALLING AND CONSTITUTION OF THE SHAREHOLDERS' MEETING

a) Italian Civil Code

Section VI

On shareholders' meetings

Art. 2363.

Meeting location.

The shareholders' meeting is called in the municipality of the company's registered office, unless the articles of association establish otherwise.

The meeting may be either ordinary or extraordinary.

Art. 2366.

Formalities for calling the meeting.

The shareholders' meeting is called by the sole director, the board of directors or the managing board in a notice indicating the date, time and location of the meeting and a list of the items on the agenda.

The notice must be published in the Official Gazette of the Italian Republic or in at least one daily newspaper set forth in the articles of association at least fifteen days prior to the date set for the meeting. The notice must be published in the Official Gazette if the newspapers set forth in the articles of association cease publication. Special laws define procedures for publishing the notice for companies that make recourse to the risk capital market.

As an exception to the previous subsection, the articles of association of companies that do not make recourse to the risk capital market may allow the meeting to be called in a notice sent to the shareholders by means that provide proof of receipt at least eight days prior to the meeting.

If the formalities established for calling the meeting are not carried out, the meeting shall be deemed duly constituted when the full share capital is represented and the majority of the members of the management and control bodies are present. However in that case the attendees may object to the discussion of matters regarding which they do not consider themselves to be sufficiently informed.

In the case contemplated in the above subsection, absent members of the management and control bodies must be promptly notified of the resolutions taken.

Art. 2367.

Calling the meeting at the request of the shareholders.

The directors or the managing board must call the shareholders' meeting without delay when requested by shareholders representing at least one-twentieth of the share capital of companies that make recourse to the risk capital market or at least one-tenth of the share capital of other companies or the lower percentage set forth in the articles of association, provided the items on the agenda are indicated in the request.

If the directors or the managing board, or in their stead the statutory auditors or the supervisory board or the management control committee, do not arrange to do so, the court, after consulting with the members of the management and control bodies and deeming their refusal unjustified, shall order by decree that the shareholders' meeting be called and designate its chairperson.

The meeting may not be called at the request of shareholders for matters on which the shareholders' meeting resolves by law at the proposal of the directors or on the basis of a plan or report that they must prepare.

Art. 2368.

Constitution of the shareholders' meeting and validity of resolutions.

The ordinary shareholders' meeting is duly constituted when at least half of the share capital is represented, excluding from the calculation shares with no voting right at the shareholders' meeting. It resolves by absolute majority unless the articles of association require a larger majority. The articles of association may establish specific rules for the appointment of corporate officers.

The extraordinary shareholders' meeting passes resolutions with the favourable vote of more than half of the share capital unless the articles of association require a larger majority. For companies that make recourse to the risk capital market, the extraordinary shareholders' meeting is duly constituted when at least half of the share capital or the higher percentage required by the articles of association is represented, and passes resolutions with the favourable vote of at least two-thirds of the share capital represented at the shareholders' meeting.

Unless provided otherwise by law, shares with no voting rights are calculated in order to determine whether the meeting is duly constituted. The same shares and those for which the voting right is not exercised following the declaration of abstention by the party with voting rights due to conflict of interests are not considered in the calculation of the majority or the percentage of capital required for the resolutions to be carried.

Art. 2369.

Second and subsequent calls.

The shareholders' meeting must be called again if the share capital set forth in the previous article is not represented at the meeting. Unless provided otherwise by the articles of association, the shareholders' meetings of companies other than cooperatives which make recourse to the risk capital market are held in a combined session. For the ordinary shareholders' meeting, the majorities set forth in the third and fourth subsections as well as in Article 2368, first subsection, second sentence, shall apply. For the extraordinary shareholders' meeting, the majorities set forth in the seventh subsection of this article shall apply. The foregoing is without prejudice to the provisions of law or the articles of association which require larger majorities to pass certain resolutions.

The shareholders' meeting notice may establish the date for the second call. This may not take place on the same day as the first. If the date of the meeting on second call is not set forth in the notice, the meeting must be called again within thirty days of the first meeting, and the deadline established under the second subsection, Article 2366 shall be reduced to eight days.

On second call, the ordinary shareholders' meeting may pass resolutions on the items on the agenda of the first meeting regardless of the portion of share capital represented, and the extraordinary shareholders' meeting is duly constituted with the attendance of over one-third of the share capital and passes resolutions with the favourable vote of at least two-thirds of the share capital represented at the meeting.

The articles of association may require larger majorities, except as regards the approval of the financial statements and the appointment and removal of corporate officers.

For companies that do not make recourse to the risk capital market, the favourable vote of more than one-third of the share capital is needed, even on second call, to pass resolutions concerning changing the company purpose, transforming the company, early winding up, extending the company duration, cancelling liquidation, transferring the registered office abroad and the issue of shares pursuant to the second subsection of Article 2351.

The articles of association may envisage additional calls, to which the provisions of the third, fourth and fifth subsections shall apply.

For companies that make recourse to the risk capital market, the extraordinary shareholders' meeting is constituted, for calls subsequent to the second, when at least one-fifth of the share capital is represented, unless the articles of association require a greater portion of share capital, and passes resolutions with the favourable vote of at least two-thirds of the share capital represented at the shareholders' meeting.

b) Italian Legislative Decree No. 58 of 24 February 1998 (Consolidated Law on Finance)

2. The notice of call must be published at least forty days prior to the meeting date for meetings called to appoint members of the management and control bodies by list voting.

Art. 126-bis

1. Within ten days of publication of the shareholders' meeting notice or within five days of the call pursuant to Article 125-bis, subsection 3 or Article 104, subsection 2, shareholders representing at least one-fortieth of the share capital, even jointly, may request that items be added to the agenda by indicating in the request the additional items proposed, or submit resolution proposals on items already included in the agenda. Requests must be submitted in writing together with the certification attesting to ownership of the equity investment, possibly by mail or via email, in compliance with any requirements strictly necessary for the company to identify the proponents indicated. Parties with voting rights may individually submit resolution proposals for the shareholders' meeting. For cooperatives, the extent of the share capital is determined in accordance with the articles of association, also in derogation of Article 135.
2. Notice of additions to the agenda or the submission of additional resolution proposals on items already included in the agenda, pursuant to subsection 1, must be sent in the same manners as those required for the publication of the notice of call at least fifteen days before the meeting date. Additional resolution proposals on items already included in the agenda shall be made available to the public based on the procedures pursuant to Article 125-ter, subsection 1, when the notice of the submission of resolution proposals is published. 4. Shareholders requesting the addition pursuant to subsection 1 must prepare a report describing the reason for the resolution proposals on the new items that they propose be discussed or the reason for the additional resolution proposals submitted on items already included in the agenda. The report must be sent to the board of directors by the deadline for the submission of requests to supplement the agenda. The board of directors shall make the report available to the public, along with any of its own assessments, when it publishes the notice of the addition or submission of new proposals, in accordance with the procedures pursuant to Article 125-ter, subsection 1.

5. If the board of directors or, in the case of its inaction, the board of statutory auditors or the supervisory board or the management control committee do not arrange to supplement the agenda with the new items or proposals submitted pursuant to subsection 1, the court, after consulting with the members of the management and control bodies and deeming their refusal unjustified, shall order that the addition be made. The order shall be published with the procedures set forth in Article 125-ter, subsection 1.

ATTENDANCE, REPRESENTATION AND EXERCISE OF VOTING RIGHTS AT SHAREHOLDERS' MEETINGS

a) Italian Civil Code

Art. 2370.

Right to attend the shareholders' meeting and voting.

Parties with voting rights may attend the shareholders' meeting.

The articles of association of companies whose shares are not admitted to central securities depositories may require the prior deposit of the shares at the registered office or at the banks indicated in the notice of call, setting forth the deadline by which the deposit must occur, as well as possibly establish that they cannot be withdrawn prior to the completion of the meeting. If the shares issued by the companies referred to in the first sentence are widely distributed among the general public, the deadline may not exceed two business days.

If the shares are registered, the companies pursuant to the second subsection must record in the shareholders' register those who attended the meeting or made the deposit.

The articles of association may permit participation in the meeting via telecommunications or voting by mail or voting via email. Those who vote by mail or via email are deemed to have attended the meeting.

The foregoing is without prejudice to special laws on entitlement to attend and to exercise the voting right at the meeting as well as on updating the shareholders' register for companies with shares admitted to central securities depositories.

Art. 2372.

Representation at shareholders' meetings.

Parties with voting rights may be represented at shareholders' meetings unless, for companies that do not make recourse to the risk capital market and cooperatives, the articles of association establish otherwise. The proxy must be conferred in writing and the associated documents must be kept by the company.

For companies that make recourse to the risk capital market, the proxy may only be conferred for individual meetings and shall remain effective for subsequent calls, unless it is a general power of attorney or a power of attorney conferred by a company, association, foundation or other collective entity or institution upon one of its employees.

The proxy may not be issued with the name of the representative left blank, and it may always be revoked regardless of any agreement to the contrary. The representative may be substituted only by a person expressly indicated on the proxy form.

If proxy is conferred upon a company, association, foundation or other collective entity or institution, they may only delegate one of their employees or associates.

Proxy may not be conferred upon members of the management or control bodies or upon employees of the company, or upon companies that it controls or the members of their management or control bodies or their employees.

The same person may not represent more than twenty shareholders at the shareholders' meeting or, for the companies set forth in the second subsection of this article, more than fifty shareholders if the company's share capital does not exceed EUR 5 million, more than one hundred shareholders if the company's share capital is between EUR 5 million and EUR 25 million and more than two hundred shareholders if the company's share capital exceeds EUR 25 million.

The provisions set forth in the fifth and sixth subsections of this article shall also apply in the event of endorsement of shares by proxy.

The provisions of the fifth and sixth subsections shall not apply to companies with shares listed in regulated markets other than cooperatives. The foregoing is without prejudice to the provisions of Article 2359.

b) Italian Legislative Decree No. 58 of 24 February 1998 (Consolidated Law on Finance)

Art. 83-sexies

(Right to attend the shareholders' meeting and voting)

1. Entitlement to attend the shareholders' meeting and exercise voting rights is certified by a notice to be sent to the issuer by a broker in compliance with its accounting records, in favour of the party with voting rights.

2. For meetings of holders of financial instruments traded with the consent of the issuer in regulated markets or in the multilateral trading systems of Italy or other EU countries, the broker must send the notice established in subsection 1 on the basis of the records of the accounts set forth in Article 83-quater, subsection 3, relating to the close of business on the seventh trading day prior to the date set for the meeting. Credits or debits to the accounts subsequent to that deadline shall not be considered in order to determine entitlement to exercise voting rights during the shareholders' meeting. The date of the meeting on first call shall be considered for the purposes of this provision provided the dates of any subsequent calls are set forth in the single notice of call; otherwise, the meeting date on each call is taken into account.

3. For meetings other than those referred to in subsection 2, the articles of association may require that the financial instruments subject to notification be registered in the account of the party with voting rights beginning from a pre-established deadline and may establish that they cannot be disposed of prior to the completion of the meeting. For meetings of holders of shares widely distributed among the general public, the deadline may not exceed two business days. If the articles of association do not prevent the disposal of financial instruments, the broker is required to update the notice sent previously in the event of disposal.

4. The notices set forth in subsection 1 must be received by the issuer by the end of the third trading day indicated in subsection 2, last sentence or the different deadline established by a Consob regulation in agreement with the Bank of Italy, or by the subsequent deadline established in the articles of association pursuant to subsection 3 and subsection 5.

5. The foregoing is without prejudice to entitlement to attend and vote if the notices are received by the issuer after the deadlines set forth in this subsection, provided they are received by the time the shareholders' meeting for the individual call begins.

6. Subsections 1, 3 and 4 shall apply to meetings of holders of financial instruments issued by cooperatives. For meetings of holders of financial instruments traded with the consent of the issuer in regulated markets or in the multilateral trading systems of Italy or other EU countries, the deadline set forth in subsection 3 may not exceed two business days.

Art. 83-duodecies

(Identification of shareholders)

1. If envisaged in the articles of association, Italian companies with shares traded with the consent of the issuer in regulated markets or in the multilateral trading systems of Italy or other EU countries may request the identifying data of shareholders who have not expressly prohibited such disclosure, together with the number of shares registered in their accounts, from brokers through a central securities depository at any time, bearing the associated expenses.

2. The reports referred to in subsection 1 must be received by the issuer within ten trading days of the date of the request, or by the different deadline established by Consob regulation in agreement with the Bank of Italy 414.

3. If the articles of association grant the right pursuant to subsection 1, the company must make the same request at the request of shareholders representing at least half of the minimum investment quota established by Consob pursuant to Article 147-ter, subsection 1. The associated costs shall be divided between the company and the requesting shareholders on the basis of criteria established by Consob regulation with a view to not incentivising the use of this instrument by shareholders for purposes which are inconsistent with the aim of facilitating coordination amongst shareholders in order to exercise the rights that require a qualifying equity investment.

4. Companies must publish a notice following the procedures and under the terms set forth in Article 114, subsection 1 in which they disclose that the request for identification has been submitted, indicating the reasons in the case of a request pursuant to subsection 1, or the identity and total equity investment of the requesting shareholders in the case of a request pursuant to subsection 3. The data received shall be made available to the shareholders free of charge on electronic media in a commonly used format, without prejudice to the obligation to update the shareholders' register.
5. This article shall not apply to cooperatives.

Section II-ter
Voting proxies

Art. 135-novies

(Representation at shareholders' meetings)

1. Parties with voting rights may appoint a single representative for each shareholders' meeting, without prejudice to the right to indicate one or more substitutes.
2. As an exception to subsection 1, parties with voting rights may appoint a different representative for each of the accounts used for recording transactions on financial instruments, provided the notice envisaged in Article 83-sexies concerning such representatives has been sent.
3. As an exception to subsection 1, if the party listed as shareholder in the notice set forth in Article 83-sexies acts on behalf of its customers, also on the basis of trustee agreements, it may indicate as a representative the parties on behalf of which it acts or one or more third parties designated by such parties.
4. If the proxy grants this right, the delegate may be substituted by a party of his or her choosing, without prejudice to compliance with Article 135-decies, subsection 3, and without prejudice to the right of the represented party to specify one or more substitutes.
5. In place of the original, the representative may deliver or transmit a copy, possibly on electronic media, of the proxy, certifying under his or her own responsibility the compliance of the proxy with the original and the identity of the delegating party. The representative shall keep the original proxy and keep track of any voting instructions received for one year after the completion of the shareholders' meeting.
6. The proxy may be conferred in an electronic document bearing an electronic signature pursuant to Article 21, subsection 2 of Italian Legislative Decree No. 82 of 7 March 2005. Companies' articles of association must specify at least one way of reporting the proxy electronically.
7. Subsections 1, 2, 3 and 4 shall also apply in the case of share transfer by proxy.
8. The foregoing is without prejudice to the provisions of Article 2372 of the Italian Civil Code. As an exception to Article 2372, second subsection of the Italian Civil Code, asset management companies, mutual investment funds and open-end investment collective schemes (SICAVs), harmonised asset management companies and non-EU parties that provide collective asset management services may confer proxies for more than one meeting.

Art. 135-decies

(Conflict of interests of the representative and substitutes)

1. Conferring proxy upon a representative with a conflict of interests is permitted provided the representative informs the shareholder in writing of the circumstances giving rise to such conflict of interests and provided specific voting instructions are provided for each resolution in which the representative is expected to vote on behalf of the shareholder. The representative shall have the onus of proof regarding disclosure to the shareholder of the circumstances giving rise to the conflict of interests. Article 1711, second subsection of the Italian Civil Code shall not apply.
2. In any event, for the purposes of this article, a conflict of interests exists where the representative or substitute:
 - a) has sole or joint control of the company, or is controlled by or subject to joint control with that company;
 - b) is associated with or exercises significant influence over the company or the company exercises significant influence over the representative;
 - c) is a member of the management or control bodies of the company or of the persons indicated in paragraphs a) and b);
 - d) is an employee or auditor of the company or of the persons set forth in paragraph a);

 - f) is bound to the company or to persons indicated in paragraphs a), b), c) and e) by independent business or employment relations or other relations of a financial nature that compromise independence.

3. Replacement of the representative by a substitute in conflict of interests is permitted only if the substitute is indicated by the shareholder. In that case, subsection 1 shall apply. Disclosure obligations and the related onus of proof in any event remain with the representative.
4. This article shall also apply in the case of share transfer by proxy.

Art. 135-undecies

(Appointed representative of a listed company)

1. Unless otherwise stated in the articles of association, for each shareholders' meeting listed companies shall appoint a person upon whom shareholders may confer proxy, with voting instructions on all or a number of items on the agenda, by the second trading day prior to the date established for the shareholders' meeting on first or subsequent calls. The proxy shall be valid only for proposals for which voting instructions are provided.
2. Proxy is conferred by signing a proxy form, the content of which is governed by a Consob regulation. Conferring proxy shall be free of charge to the shareholder. The proxy and voting instructions may be cancelled within the time limit indicated in subsection 1.
3. Shares for which full or partial proxy is conferred are calculated for the purpose of determining due constitution of the shareholders' meeting. With regard to proposals for which no voting instructions are given, the shares of the shareholder concerned are not considered in calculating the majority and the percentage of capital required for the resolutions to be carried.
4. The person appointed as representative shall disclose any interest, personal or on behalf of third parties, that he or she may have with respect to the resolution proposals on the agenda. The representative must also maintain confidentiality of the content of voting instructions received until scrutiny commences, without prejudice to the option of disclosing such information to his or her employees or collaborators, who shall also be subject to confidentiality obligations. Proxy may not be conferred upon the appointed representative in manners that do not comply with this article.
5. By regulation pursuant to subsection 2, Consob may establish cases in which a representative failing to meet the terms of Article 135-decies may express a vote other than that indicated in the voting instructions.
